

Kathleen Mundell is a folklorist and the director of Cultural Resources, a Maine based nonprofit working with communities on developing strategies that sustain their traditional culture. She is author of North by Northeast: Wabanaki, Haudenosaunee and Tuscarora Traditional Arts (Tilbury House Press, 2008) and a recipient of the American Folklore Society's Benjamin A. Botkin Prize for lifetime achievement in public folklore.

